

junction which tells a man that when he is smitten on one cheek he should turn the other to the smiter.

"In politics," said he, "when a man hits me in the cheek, I generally try to soak him in the jugular."

Samuel Kalisch was introduced as temporary Chairman. He took up the speech of Temporary Chairman Pitney of the Republican Convention, in which Mr. Pitney charged the Democratic Party with responsibility for race-track legislation. Mr. Kalisch has been one of the counsel for the track owners. He said that the first race-track law was passed when Sewell, Hobart, and Gardner were the controlling minds in a Republican Senate, and the second act permitting betting was passed by Republican votes. In denying the charge that the Judiciary was partisan, Mr. Kalisch referred to Chancellor McGill, and the delegates applauded with vigor.

Judge Howard Carrow of Camden was made the permanent Chairman. He said that for twenty-nine years the Executive Department of the State Government had been managed by Democrats, and so it would continue as long as Democracy reflected popular aspirations. Notwithstanding all that had been said by Republican newspapers and orators, the Democratic hosts intended to and would elect their Governor. Judge Carrow spoke of the high class of New-Jersey's Democratic Governors.

The convention adopted by a rising vote and with three cheers a resolution thanking Allan L. McDermott for his services as Chairman of the State Committee.

John Johnston of Paterson read a resolution as follows:

Resolved, That hereafter the State Committee shall consist of one representative from each county and five representatives at large. The county representatives shall be chosen by the delegates to the Gubernatorial Convention, and the representatives at large shall be appointed by the permanent Chairman of the State Convention.

When nominations for Governor were declared in order, Prosecutor Budd of Burlington eulogized Judge J. Clifford Stanley Sims, one of his neighbors, who was the favorite of Burlington's delegates, but said that Judge Sims had asked all his friends to vote for Chancellor McGill, whom he nominated, amid applause. Several seconding speeches were made.

Ex-Assemblyman Van Sickle of Cumberland made a pretty little speech in nominating ex-Senator Philip Pontin Baker, and finished by withdrawing him in favor of McGill.

Ex-Congressman Thomas Dunn English said that he was talking only for himself in naming Augustus W. Cutler. The veteran was listened to respectfully as he paid high tribute to Mr. Cutler's ability and probity.

But one ballot was necessary. McGill had 796 votes, drawn from the following counties: Atlantic, 23; Bergen, 29; Burlington, 41; Camden, 70; Cape May, 15; Cumberland, 32; Essex, 101; Gloucester, 21; Hudson, 153; Hunterdon, 10; Mercer, 51; Middlesex, 46; Monmouth, 46; Ocean, 15; Passaic, 55; Salem, 18; Somerset, 20; Union, 46.

Cutler's vote was 143, as follows: Essex, 46; Morris, 31; Hunterdon, 17; Sussex, 20; Warren, 28; Union, 11.

The nomination was made unanimous. The following is the membership of the new State Committee:

Atlantic, Richard J. Byrnes; Bergen, Abram De Ronde; Burlington, Eckard H. Budd; Camden, Henry B. Paul; Cape May, Alvin B. Hildreth; Cumberland, Philip P. Baker; Essex, Howard W. Hayes; Gloucester, Bowman S. Cox; Hudson, E. F. C. Young; Hunterdon, Paul A. Queen; Mercer, Samuel Walker, Jr.; Middlesex, Oliver Kelly; Monmouth, David S. Crater; Morris, Thomas H. Hoagland; Ocean, E. P. Empson; Passaic, Louis F. Brown; Salem, Robert Gwynne; Somerset, Frederick P. Alcut; Sussex, Samuel Fowler; Union, S. M. Williams; Warren, Johnston Cornish.

The members at large of the State Committee will be appointed later.

WORK OF THE CONVENTION.

Nomination on One Ballot—A New State Committee.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 26.—Allan L. McDermott, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, was cheered when he appeared on the platform to call the convention to order.

"This convention," said he, "is much unlike one that met here a week ago. They nominated a partisan Gubernatorial candidate; we meet here to name the next Governor of New-Jersey."

Referring to Mr. Griggs, the Republican nominee, Mr. McDermott said that he was probably wondering whether he was afflicted by delirium tremens or prohibition. By the time this was settled, the election would be over and his rival elected.

Mr. McDermott defended his own course as Chairman of the State Committee and the action of the committee. He seemed to be referring to the accusation that the State Committee was responsible for the coal combine act of three years ago, in saying that the committee had never sought to influence legislation. Becoming personal again, Mr. McDermott said that he had never been a believer in the Biblical in-
